

Evaluation in the Crowd: Crowdsourcing and Human-Centred Experiments
 November 22 – 27 , 2015, Dagstuhl Seminar 15481
 Draft Schedule (subject to change)

	Monday	Tuesday	Wednesday	Thursday	Friday
9-10.30	Introduction and Welcome 1 minute introductions from all participants	CrowdSourcing & Psychology: Darren Edwards Questions and Discussion	Four 20-minute talks Jianu, Radu: A crowd-sourcing framework for automated visualization evaluation Chang, Remco: Perceptual modeling of data visualization Babak Naderi: Motivation of Crowd Workers, does it matter? Judith Redi: Crowdsourcing-based subjective evaluations: lessons learnt and open challenges	Four 20-minute talks Bach, Benjamin: Bringing Network visualizations to Domain Scientists Neha Gupta: Supporting the work of crowdwork Keimel, Christian: Crowdsourcing and hybrid devices Fisher, Brian: Psychological perspectives on crowdsourcing	Synergy
10.30-10.45	Coffee	Coffee	Coffee	Coffee	Coffee
10.45-11.45	CrowdSourcing Technology: Matthias Hirth & Michelle Zhou	The CrowdSourcing Community: David Martin & Neha Gupta	Groups	Groups	Going forward: publication and collaboration
11.45-12.15	Questions and Discussion	Questions and Discussion	Group interim reports
12.15-2.00	Lunch	Lunch	Lunch	Lunch	Lunch
2.00-3.00	CrowdSourcing&Visualisation: Rita Borgo & Bongshin Lee	Challenges, Chapters and Collaboration	Social outing	Four 15-minute talks
3.00-3.30	Questions and Discussion
3.30-4.00	Coffee
4.00-5.40	Four 20-minute talks Kobourov, Stephen: Evaluating Engagement and Enjoyment Jacques, Jason Tarl: Measuring Workers' Pre-Task Interactions Fabrikant, Sara Irina: Experimental Control, Statistical Analyses, Connecting static lab and mobile world studies Gadiraju, Ujwal: Give Me More! Improving the Effectiveness of Paid Microtask Crowdsourcing	Groups		Group Final reports
6.00	Dinner	Dinner	Dinner	Dinner	